IMMIGRATION LAW

Wherever You Do Business, We Speak the Language

► Legal translation of any kind takes specialized knowledge of the law in addition to foreign language fluency. When it comes to immigration law documents, accurate translations provide another layer of defense against rejection. Language Connections knows the U.S. immigration legal structure and is fluent in its requirements and legal terminology. Our linguists hold advanced degrees in law and bring the requisite work experience necessary to properly translate your documents.

Language Connections works with immigration law firms and EB-5 Regional Centers and meets all federal requirements for official translations. We work with both sides of the immigration process - incoming applicants as well as U.S.-based investment and legal institutions.

In addition to specialized document translation, expert interpreting services are invaluable when working with foreign investors seeking U.S. residency. Language Connections has perfected its interpreting service over many years and, as a result, we stand out amongst our peers in:

Court-certified professional interpretation, including American Sign Language (ASL)
Interpreting at interviews, negotiations, presentations and other real-time proceedings Simultaneous or consecutive interpreting at multilingual conferences and symposia. We provide our own state-of-the-art audio equipment to guarantee the clarity and fluidity of the presentation.

get it right the first time

► Foresight and preparation are essential in immigration law. We consider your needs, provide input where necessary based on our experience and help guarantee your documents conform to all requirements and worldwide best-practice standards.

We know there is no room for error in matters of the law and are committed to preventing the unwanted delays and issues common when submitting translated legal documents. Our translations are confidential and adhere to strict deadlines. Moreover, our collaborative workforce analyzes, translates, edits and proofreads your text to ensure total accuracy.

what our clients say

"The Idaho Office for Refugees relies on Language Connections for all our translations of public health and policy related materials. They have been able to translate materials into a wide variety of languages, including certain tribal languages, and they provide the translated documents in original format and in a variety of electronic options. In all cases, we have found their work to be accurate and timely and their staff to be professional, flexible and friendly. It is a pleasure to work with Language Connections."

Patty Haller, Deputy Director
Idaho Office for Refugees

"I am extremely satisfied with Language Connections' high level of responsiveness and quality. They have done a superior job in translating my academic articles on environmental development and law from Arabic to English. I am confident that these translated articles will give the English-speaking world more insight into the steps necessary to ensure successful environmental development in Iraq."
